MISCELLANEOUS DISCUSSION

2060 Water Master Plan. Mr. Stephen Ellis, Ward 4, said Item 21 regarding groundwater water blending and treatment was a surprise because the 2.1 million gallons per day (mgd) that was supposed to come from putting the arsenic wells back online is a pretty significant part of that master plan. He is really interested to hear what the City is going to do to make up for that shortage given the fact that water demand is increasing and the 2060 Water Master Plan seems to be no longer viable. He asked who will pay for the new plan because the City is getting ready to propose a water rate increase and it will be a pretty hard sale if any of that water rate increase goes towards new infrastructure that does not serve current users of the water system.

2060 Water Master Plan, continued: Mr. Stephen Ellis, Ward 4, said Item 21 regarding groundwater water Ms. Cindy Rogers, Ward 4, said she did not understand that the blending of water was of existing wells and not including bringing back water from the arsenic wells. She thought consideration of the current water needs and consumption as well as efforts taken to lead to conservation and living within our own water resources was all part of the long term water plan. She gives credit to Staff for finding better ways of coming up with better strategies, but would like to know more about this issue. She said 20% of water users use 40% of Norman's water and that is what kills the City on peak days. She said the City is hitting peak days on days that are not even the hottest days of summer so she is looking forward to these conversations.

*

Center City Form Based Code. Mr. Stephen Ellis said the City just kicked the can down the road in regard to the Center City Form Based Code (CCFBC) when they approved the new development tonight. He said continuing to focus on student center housing is not easy to get out of because most college towns have a "student ghetto" and it is hard to get those areas out of student ghetto because families do not want to live near a lot of college students.

Norman Depot. Ms. Shari Jackson, Executive Director of the Norman Music Festival and Norman Depot, said she has worked with arts in Norman for 20 years and have watched the growth and development of Downtown Norman. She is excited to hear about the results of the study on a transit plan, but is concerned about potentially making the Norman Depot on Jones Street a Bus Transfer Station. She said there needs to be more discussion before a site is chosen. She said the Norman Depot is home to every parade that takes place downtown and these are logistical issues that need to be addressed.

*

Stormwater. Ms. Cindy Rogers, Ward 4, said tonight Council talked about smart water meters and stormwater mitigation, particularly the new development approved tonight within the CCFBC. She said every project should go above and beyond in areas where flooding is a problem. She said the City should consider a Stormwater Impact Fee which could be passed administratively without voter approval; however, there should be public buy-in.

*

Conversion Therapy. Ms. Flora Ellis, Ward 4, said Conversion Therapy is an outdated practice and wrong. She said if minors cannot legally consent to sexual activities then it is clear they cannot consent to therapy that attempts to alter their minds and preferences relating to that same sexual activity. These children are currently being pushed into these therapies by their parents in spite of their own wishes and prohibiting the practice of conversion therapy with a minor will show the youth in the community that you are supportive of them and help gain further acceptance of the LTBGQ community in Norman.
